

Getting Hit By a Bus:

No organization likes to think about losing a valuable team member, but it happens. An unexpected loss of a team member is difficult for all members of the organization. The last thing anyone wants to think about at such a difficult time is the disruption in the flow of operations and the confusion of wondering where to start.

In an effort to make this daunting task easier, we have put together an easy-to-use form to organize the information that is necessary for your organization to continue with the logistics of day-to-day activities.

Use the space below to enter vital information such as account numbers, PIN numbers, and the locations of important documents. Keep this list someplace secure, but where someone in the organization can get to it quickly. Storing it in an encrypted electronic file on a flash drive is a good idea, as long as someone in the organization can recall the password for access. Reviewing the contents annually is also a good idea. Presnell Gage, PLLC, is here to help with any questions that you may have.
